If your home team had been losing consistently for eleven long years and, despite your ardent rooting, had continued to finish in the second division; and if at the end of that period it should suddenly wake up and move into the select "first-four" class, wouldn't it be a grand and glorious feeling, You bet it would.

When you consider the fact that this hypothetical case applies to the St. Louis Browns, piloted by the genial and peppery Jimmy Burke, is it any wonder that a raft of fans over in the big Missouri town are sitting back with a self-satisfied air?

The Browns have been a stum-ing block for a number of teams this season. Especially have they here effective against New York. In the meetings between the two Eurke's men can claim eight victories to seven for the Yankees. At the Polo Grounds they have tumbled the Gothamites in a surprising manner. Shocker especially has been a bugbear to the Yanks, and to Babe Ruth especially. He struck out Babe three times in one game just to show how little he cared about the slugger's reputation.

You've got to hand it to Burke. He knows how to get results, and he's getting them.

Taking control in 1918 while the team was in a slump, Burke injected a lot of pep and finally brought them to fifth place. Last season he repeated that stunt. This season he is going higher. And next year—well, he's got the climbing higher. Exceptional hitting strength, capable fielding and plenty of fighting spirit have made the Burkemen a tough proposition this year.
